This keynote provides a thought-provoking look at our ever-changing world and the interconnectedness of stakeholders. How does one part of our business impact another? How can we build an organization that welcomes and embraces change, and through this initiative, creates an environment that is flexible, innovative and creative? We can choose to cling to the bank or jump on the raft and go for a ride.

"Yvonne's presentation skills are excellent and her ability to recognize situations or opportunities to engage people on an issue is excellent. She has a strong insight in reading people and their issues. One thing I really appreciated about how she handled herself in front of our group was how humble she was at times in relating to her past and how she learned from various personal events or situations. We will work together with Yvonne again."
